Second Junior League
Dance November 17

On November 17, the Junior League will hold the second of its series of four dances at the Governor Clinton Hotel. This dance also will follow a concert sponsored by the Cooperative Concert Association of Kingston.

Mrs. Allan L. Haezstein is chairman of these dances and is being assisted by Mrs. James Betts. Miss Isabel Brigham, who is chairman of music for the dance on November 17, has secured Paul Zucora and his orchestra. Mrs. John B. Krom will be chairman of the supper committee which was held on October 24 and was so well attended and enjoyed that there is little doubt but that those following will be correspondingly successful. The last two dances will be held in the spring.

To Entertain Jr. D.A.R.

The Junior group of Willetts Chapter, D. A. R., will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Chapter House on Crown street on Monday evening, November 9, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. William R. Anderson, regent of the senior society, and a descendant of Governor Bradford of the Plymouth Colony, will tell of the first Thanksgiving, decreed by Governor Bradford. At the close of the meeting all members of the group are to be entertained at a supper party at the home of Mrs. C. Ray Everett, 24 Delta Place. It is hoped that all members will attend.

College Women to Meet Tuesday

The Kingston College Women's Club will hold its November meeting on Tuesday evening, November 10, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. William Kraft, 130 Fair street. At this time Dr. J. Hillis Miller, president of Keuka College, will address the group on "The Youth Movement." Mrs. Dorr Monroe will act as chairman arranging the social hour.

Fifty-fifth Turkey Dinner

The 55th annual turkey dinner and fair sponsored by the ladies of the Roundout Presbyterian Church will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, November 10 and 11. The dinner will be served on Tuesday from 5:30 to 8 o'clock and on Wednesday a turkey salad supper with a tempting menu will be offered. After the supper on Wednesday evening a short entertainment will be given for the children.

Mrs. William Kingman is acting as general chairman on arrangements. She is being assisted by Mrs. James Armstrong, who is arranging the entertainment. Mrs. John Sterley and Mrs. G. W. Simpkins are in charge of decorations. The dining room hostesses will be Mrs. Conrad Heiselman and Mrs. Charles Terwilliger. Those visiting the fair will find Mrs. Arthur Russell and Mrs. William Hutton in charge of the art shop; Mrs. Henry Connolly and Mrs. Melvin Coutant at the sweet booth; Mrs. Alice Metcalf and Mrs. William McCullough at the domestic booth and Mrs. Irving Scott and Mrs. Arthur Cragin at the juvenile shop.

Women's Exchange
To Give Card Party

The directors of the Women's Exchange held a meeting on Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Alva Staples on Highland avenue, to arrange for their annual card party, which will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Friday, December 4. The Women's Exchange was started in 1911 and has been a great help to many women in disposing of their handwork, antiques, jellies and baked goods. The proceeds of the card party will help to carry on the shop at 6 St. James street. The following committee is arranging the party and will be glad to receive tables at the request of patrons: Mrs. Alva Staples, Mrs. Clarence O. Finner, Mrs. Harold Rakov, Mrs. David Burgen, Mrs. Edwin C. Fissett, Mrs. Ralph Gregory, Mrs. Stephen D. Hillebrand, Mrs. C. RED CROSS ROLL CALL

The annual Roll Call of the Red Cross will be held here from November 11 to November 26, according to a recent announcement. Workers, who will bring this year's appeal to residents of Ulster county, expect to eclipse previous records made here. When serious disaster falls upon some section of the country and demands prompt, efficient and adequate emergency assistance, all are conscious of the services of the Red Cross. Because of the important part played by the Red Cross in the many disasters of the past year, greater support is now looked for in the membership drive.

Spring floods, which inundated 20 eastern states, and tornadoes which wrecked two southern cities, were but two of the many major disasters needing Red Cross help. Earthquake and wind also took a high toll of life and property by striking populous centers in areas normally considered safe. When these disasters occurred, the Red Cross rushed skilled personnel by plane, train and automobile. Immediately men, women and children were fed at Red Cross concentration camps and were given temporary shelter. Clothing also was distributed and first-aid stations and emergency hospitals established with hundreds of Red Cross Nurses combating epidemic by timely immunization programs.

Because Red Cross rehabilitation is permanent, it being based on need not loss, the organization remains at the scene of the disaster long after other groups have withdrawn. For weeks and even months Red Cross stays on the job as hammer and saw rebuild what the elements have torn down as long range problems are ironed out.

The Red Cross not only helps in national disasters but gives its assistance to needy cases in the county.

WAR PROSPECTS

Wars and rumors of wars con-upting, but despite the general scramble of the nations to arm themselves the prospect for the immediate future is not alarming. The situation seems well described by Columbus Jay Franklin, formerly in the State Department at Washington, who says:

The occasions for a great war in Europe are far more numerous than in 1914. The will to war is lacking. People still look at the graveyards and cripples rather than the trophies and medals, and are afraid of gas, planes, bacteria, etc. So Germany will be allowed to win a lot more of Central Europe before it becomes worth England's while to renew an effective military alliance with France and Russia, while Austria and the Balkans will serve as an apple of discord between Hitler and Mussolini. Minor wars are always possible (as in Manchuria and Abyssinia) and an early conference of the great powers to revise the peace treaties is considered inevitable, but a general European war is not considered likely for many years.

THE FIRST WORK ON THE PART OF THE PHYSICIAN IS TO BANISH FEAR—TO SHOW THAT CANCER IS CURABLE IF TREATED EARLY. HALF THE BATTLE IS WON WHEN FEAR IS REMOVED.

SLOWER NATIONAL GROWTH

The latest estimate made by the Census Bureau, based on the number of births and deaths and on the immigration figures, shows the population of the United States at 123,423,000. The net immigration for the period considered was very low, only about 3,444. Births exceeded deaths by 333,356, but the rate of population growth appears to be decreasing. This is attributed partly to the slightly lower birth rate. Immigration restrictions must be responsible for more of it. Between 1920 and 1930 the population gained 17,466,426. In the present decade the gain is expected to be not much more than 10,000,000.

There are bound to be social and economic changes following the change in population trend. Some enterprises will not have to expand so rapidly as formerly. Others ought to have a better chance of catching up with population requirements. More families than have ever before attained the ideal American standard of living should soon be able to reach it. The effort on employment and real estate and education will be interesting.

FILM WASTE PUNISHED

Russia, rising from its crude Bolshevik beginnings, is going artistic, and how! Whether in economics or art, they do things over there with a big stick. Performers and executives in artistic fields have got to be good, or else! The grim alternative is seen in the case of three cinema executives in Moscow just sentenced to labor camps. They seem to have "gone Hollywood." They were accused and convicted of frittering away money in esthetic experiments. Witnesses testified that they had bought a bad scenario, wasted funds in searching for talent and indulged in lavish production expenses. Now they will chop trees and break rocks, to teach them better sense.

THE IDEA IS APPEALING, IN A WAY. SOMETIMES WHILE LOOKING AT A FILM PRODUCTION MANY OF US HAVE FELT LIKE DOING SUCH THINGS TO THE PRODUCERS, NOT SO MUCH FOR WAITING SOMEBODY ELSE'S MONEY AS FOR TAKING OURS ON FALSE PRETEXTS. WE HAVE FELT STILL MORE VIOLENT WHEN LOOKING AT MODERN PAINTING EXHIBITS.

FEAR REGARDING CANCER

Notwithstanding the fact that the cause of cancer is unknown many epileptics are kept free from the distressing and embarrassing symptoms by cutting down on starch foods and liquids, increasing the fat foods and taking a tablet of phenobarbital daily.

The cause of cancer is not known, yet if discovered and treated early, much suffering is prevented and life is saved.

All over the world, while a diligent search is being made to find the cause of cancer, efforts are being made to help the family physician recognize the symptoms of cancer sooner than is now the case, and to have his mind on cancer more; that is to become "cancer conscious." Thus a book on cancer by the staff of Northwood Hospital, England, has been issued, the object of which is the education of the general practitioner of medicine in the recognition of those signs which should give rise to suspicion of cancer, and the methods of investigating thoroughly every case in which such suspicion may have been aroused. "It is admitted on all hands that modern methods of treatment properly applied, many, if not yet all, cases of cancer are curable if seen in a sufficiently early stage."

However this book, "The Early Diagnosis of Malignant Disease," goes further than just trying to brush up the family physician on the recognition of cancer.

It is recognized by the authors of this book that in order to bring down the death rate from cancer, the education of the public is equally important. This means the quieting of fears, calming of prejudices, and overcoming of ignorance, which on the whole is a more difficult matter than interesting and helping the general practitioner to recognize cancer sooner. The physician is alert and naturally anxious to recognize cancer and save lives.

Unfortunately the public does not realize the danger of delay, is afraid of cancer and ashamed to have the "talk" of cancer in the family.

It can be seen how difficult it is for a physician to have a patient "submit himself or herself without question or hesitation to the rigorous, exacting and, expensive methods necessary, often on the grounds of suspicion only."

The first work on the part of the physician is to banish fear—to show that cancer is curable if treated early. Half the battle is won when fear is removed.

THE FIRST WORK ON THE PART OF THE PHYSICIAN IS TO BANISH FEAR—TO SHOW THAT CANCER IS CURABLE IF TREATED EARLY. HALF THE BATTLE IS WON WHEN FEAR IS REMOVED.

The Wrong Murderer
By MUGN CLEVELY

Chapter 48
ANOTHER AMBUSH

HE took from his pocket a whistle and blew a long, shrill blast. Mahony leaned back against the wall, still smoking, but his hand remained in his coat pocket and his eyes were very alert and watchful.

Ruth crossed the room and stood by him; her face was pale, but her eyes were brave and steady; she seemed to have no fear.

Elsa sat down wearily in one of the shabby chairs. She also had stolen her courage to present a brave front, but her eyes were agonized; she was tormented by the thought that it was she who had brought this misfortune on Mahony and Ruth.

Lawson crossed the room to the window and stood looking out. He was smiling, but there was a trace of uneasiness in his smile; he was still baffled by Mahony's calm, easy manner. He had the air of a man watching anxiously for something. It seemed that he saw what he wanted, for he turned from the window toward the three in the room.

"My men are coming," he said, in a tone of satisfaction. "If you have anything to say to one another, I advise you to make the most of the few seconds left to you. And let me warn you again, Mahony, that any attempt at resistance on your part will involve the most unpleasant consequences for Miss Fraser and Miss Little."

"Just like a film play," observed Mahony. "The villain has everybody in his power. 'Ha ha!' he chuckles slyly, and twirls the ends of his magnificent black mustache."

He was talking nonsense with the object of wasting a little more time. He did not want things to happen too soon.

Elsa rose from her chair and looked out of the window. It was dark outside, but in the darkness she could dimly distinguish a ring of shadowy figures advancing across the plot of waste ground toward the house.

On they came, closing in nearer and nearer, and Elsa felt the last dregs of hope drain from her as she watched their quiet, inexorable advance. And then suddenly she stiffened slightly with surprise, and leaned forward, peering anxiously. A new hope sprang up suddenly in her breast.

"But some of them are dressed as policemen," she exclaimed.

Even as she spoke, her hope died away. Obviously Lawson had ordered some of them to dress as policemen for his own reasons.

"What's that?" said Lawson in a high, shrill, unnatural voice.

HE stepped quickly to the window, thrust Elsa to one side and looked out. On his face was a look of utter stupefaction; and at the sight of his expression Elsa felt her hope revive again. Lawson stared out of the window, and as he stared all the color left his cheeks. Fling, motionless, he stood there staring, and his expression was that of a trapped animal.

"They are policemen," remarked Mahony in a tone of one who gives out a casual piece of information. "That is, unless friend Inspector Kennedy has let me down. He said he'd meet me here this evening soon after eleven. I imagine he'll want to have a word with you too, Lawson, about that book of violence I took from your safe just before I came along here tonight."

"That book—the police have got that book!" gasped Lawson.

"Deadly pale, with beads of perspiration standing out on his lip and forehead, and a wild, hunted expression in his eyes, he looked like a man who has received a death blow."

All the strength seemed to have gone out of him. He thrust out one hand blindly to the wall near the window, as if seeking support. Steps sounded in the hall. Inspector Kennedy's clear, strong voice could be heard calling: "Are you there, Mahony?"

The sound of that voice seemed to reanimate Lawson. His drooping figure jerked suddenly erect; his muscles tensed; he turned slightly, facing the door in a half-crouching attitude, cowering like a tiger at bay.

The door began to open, and as Inspector Kennedy stepped into the room, Lawson's hand flashed swiftly to his pocket. And Mahony had been waiting for that. As Lawson's hand moved, Mahony hurled himself forward from the wall in a swift, long jump, and was on him.

The revolver came out of Lawson's pocket, but before he had time to aim it Mahony had grabbed the barrel in his left hand and twisted it sharply upward. There sounded the hard, sharp crack of a shot, and a flash of bright flame spouted upward; a lump of plaster fell down from the ceiling and shattered into broken fragments on the floor.

Then Mahony's right came over in a smashing wallop that knocked Lawson clear across the room, to collapse in a heap in the corner. The revolver remained grasped in Mahony's hand.

"Good work," said Inspector Kennedy.

He turned to Lawson.

"Ambrose Lawson, I arrest you on a charge of being concerned in the illegal sale of narcotic drugs. It is my duty to warn you that anything you say may be taken down and used as evidence at your trial. I may also warn you that charges of a more serious nature will probably be preferred against you later."

The Inspector made a motion to a man who had entered the room just behind him.

"Take him away, Sergeant," he said.

DURING the Inspector's speech Lawson had risen to his feet. It was quite obvious to him that the game was up. What he had planned to be the hour of his triumph over Mahony was the hour of his doom.

He knew what the further charges to be preferred against him later would consist of. He would be charged with murder.

He laughed. Now that his end was certain, he could meet it defiantly.

"I congratulate you, Mahony. You were too clever for me after all," he said. "You can put those handcuffs away, Sergeant; I shall come quietly—very quietly."

His hand flashed to his mouth. Inspector Kennedy and the sergeant both sprang forward quickly and grabbed him. But they were too late. Even as they seized him his body arched in a tense convulsion; his hands clawed wildly at the air; a hoarse, gasping rattle sounded in his throat.

Then he fell limply in their arms. Inspector Kennedy bent over him for a moment. But there was nothing to be done. Ambrose Lawson was dead.

The Inspector rose.

"You take charge here for the time being, Sergeant," he ordered. "I'm going to Lawson's house to finish the investigations there. You'd better take Miss Fraser home, Mahony. I shan't want her or you again tonight. It may interest you to know that we got all Lawson's gang all right. They were never so surprised in their lives as when they suddenly found themselves surrounded by the police."

He smiled.

"So far as the warrants against you and Miss Fraser are concerned, I think we may consider them withdrawn. You'll probably wake up and find yourselves the national hero and heroine in the morning."

He turned to Elsa, who was standing rather forlornly in a corner of the room.

"If you'd care for my escort, I could give you a lift home on my way," he said.

Elsa rushed slightly.

"Thank you," she said.

Mahony took Ruth home in a taxi. During the greater part of the drive both of them were rather silent. Now that all the excitement was over, both of them felt a little flat and washed out.

Ruth sighed.

"I wonder what will happen now?" she said.

"Oh, inquests and interviews and a whole lot of nuisances of that kind, I expect," answered Mahony unenthusiastically. "There will be a lot of fuss in the newspapers, and Miss Little will probably be offered half a dozen new film contracts. You will be asked to write the story of your life, and to allow your photo to be put in advertisements of dozens of patent foods."

"Oh!" said Ruth. "Anyway, Elsa knows now that you didn't kill her uncle," she added.

"Yes," said Mahony in a somewhat disingenuous tone. "I suppose she does."

"You don't seem very pleased about it," observed Ruth.

Mahony shrugged his shoulders.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON—Who is going to be the national chief of police? A year ago you could hear often that J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, some time would head not only his bureau of investigation agents, but a consolidation of the famed secret service and various other police and detective agencies of the government. You don't hear that so often now. It never had any official support.

Washington now hears much talk of a back-fire being built up against the phenomenal rise of the sticky, six-haired executive whose agents have raised need with the kidnapping industry and made bank robbery a criminal hazard instead of a criminal sport.

Treasury Seeks Big Force

BUT lately something else happened. The treasury announced it would ask congress to consolidate its police agencies under one head in the treasury. That would give the treasury a force of 2,800 men, not including the 300 in the narcotics branch, to be kept separate for a time.

Hoover's force amounts only to 625. The treasury group would include: Secret Service, 300; customs investigation agency, 300; border patrol, 500; alcoholic tax unit, 1,700.

Who will head them may not be announced until congress acts on the consolidation bill. W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service, is approaching retirement. Some have an eye on Joseph E. Murphy, assistant, who was ordered demoted and was given a post in the field after the affair with Hoover's men. But he hasn't gone, still administers the unit in Moran's absence.

Determined Fees

HE HAS many staunch friends. But well-bettered rumor credits him with having also some determined foes besides Senator McKellar of Tennessee, who also balked at his position as an increase in Hoover's pay went through that body last session. He gets $10,000 a year now, against $9,000 before.

Hoover and his men have had most of the publicity for a long time since rum-rum died out, the various police agencies under the treasury haven't been much in the news. The secret service is always around with the President but seldom is mentioned in dispatches. The secret service also protects the currency. Yet in the most

Barefoot Boy

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
The barefoot boy has been a favorite theme for artists and poets ever since the "cult of the commoplace" started a hundred and fifty years and more ago. Unquestionably he is a charming person when met in poems and pictures, perhaps at one time he was charming in real life. Today he is more than apt to have athlete's foot, and no one can be charming under such conditions.

How prevalent the disease was before the "public bathing" habit started no one knows. Today nearly every other person has or has had athlete's foot, and generally

Courtesy on the highways is being preached, but still the motorist who dims his lights after dark on the approach of another car in the minority, and probably unexplained accidents are due to dazzling headlights which have dazzled and confused drivers into losing control of their cars.

Officer—You've been doing 60 miles an hour. Don't you care anything about the law?
Sweet Young Lady—Why, officer, how can I tell? I've just met you.

No traffic officer has nerve enough to tell his wife she can't make a left turn.

A motorist was repairing his car on a country road:
Bystander—Trouble?
Motorist—Yes.
Bystander—What power car is it?
Motorist—Forty horse.
Bystander—What seems to be the matter with it?
Motorist—Well, from the way she acts, I should say that 33 of the horses are dead.

The automobile trailer is reducing the demand for houses and apartments. According to a recent survey made by the American Automobile Association about one million people are living in trailers in this country.

Friend—How did you get so round-shouldered?
Man—Winding up the phonograph for my daily dozen records.

Motorists drive according to many rules, but the coroner still goes by dead reckoning.

The only time a horse gets scared these days is when he meets another horse.

Correct this sentence: The automobile campaign is working wonderfully well, there isn't an obnoxious taxi horn in the city.

The motorcycle officer drove up beside the car that was holding up the line. "Can't you go any faster?" he roared. "Yes," was the calm reply, "but I don't want to leave the car."

Pennington—So your father is a southern planter?
Ramsey—Yes, he is an undertaker in New Orleans.

The man who tries to keep his business in his head will never keep ahead of his business.

Helen—Last year I received valentines from all over the country.
Fred—Where do you work—in the dead letter office?

Before a young man marries he hears only the things he likes to hear, afterward his wife begins to speak her mind.

Wonder if that man Job ever tried to take down a stove pipe or hang a screen door.

Beth—Jane can't hold her head up since she got back from that nudist colony.

Beth—Is she a marked woman?

Beth—Yes, the insects were terrible.

When a bologna maker goes to bust in a presidential election year—that's news!

Passenger (in airplane)—Why are you laughing?
Pilot—I'm thinking of what they'll say in the asylum when they find out I've escaped.

The world is your cow but you must do the milking.

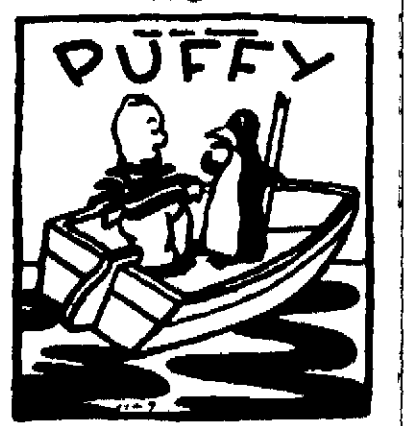

White Friend—Rastus, I'm sorry to hear that you've buried your wife.
Rastus—Yasuh. boms. Ah jes' had to; she was daid.

Opera in a Balloon

Just before the close of the eighteenth century balloon ascents became a craze in France. The first person, Pilatre de Rozier, would rise in his balloon amongst a multitude of watchers, very gallant and debonair, waving his hat to the multitude. A woman, Mme. Tible, first of her sex to leave the ground, would sing excerpts from operas while high in the air, so thrilled was she.

The village whistle sounds a 3 p. m. curfew at Plain City, Ohio, for all youths under 18. Mayor C. D. Perkins said the curfew would be enforced rigidly.

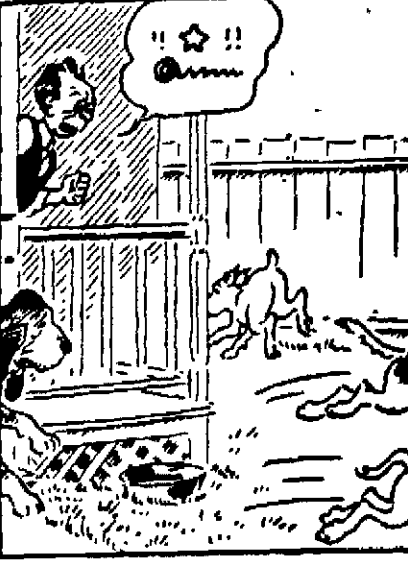

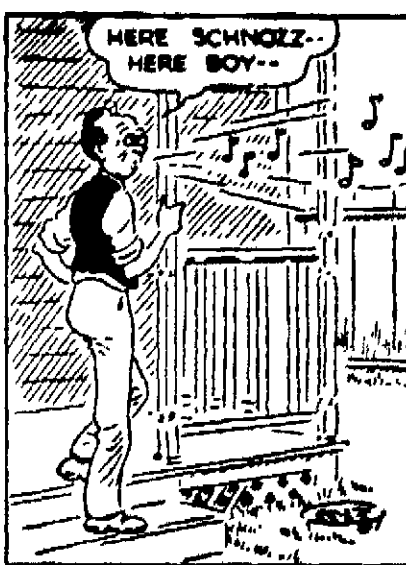

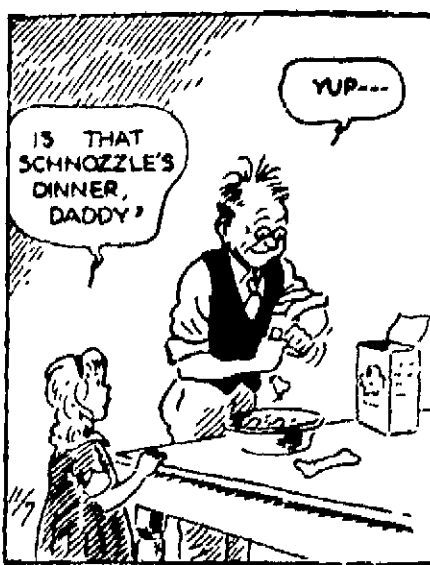

"John, go to the prow while I go to the stern."

PLENTY OF OTHERS HEARD IT—

Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars

Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proven Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smooth, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace—the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Unsteel construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-steel, all-steel body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

Luggage capacity in Chevrolet's new trunk models has been greatly increased, as has interior luggage space in other models.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Kne-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Synco-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost, feature all models of both series.

The World

ON WHEELS

A new Ford V-8 for 1937, presenting definite advances in modern streamlined styling, and powered either with the 85 horsepower V-8 engine now in use in more than 3,000,000 motor cars, or a brand new 60 horsepower V-8 "economy" engine, which is a smaller counterpart of its older brother, was announced today by the Ford Motor Company.

The new cars will be shown for the first time publicly at the Ford-Lincoln automobile show opening next Wednesday (November 11) at Hotel Astor, New York city. The cars will go on display next Saturday (November 14) at Ford dealer showrooms throughout the United States. They were shown at Dearborn, Mich., for the first time yesterday at a huge Ford dealer meeting, the first general rally of Ford dealers from all parts of the United States ever held with Henry Ford, founder, and Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company.

Disclosure of the new lighter "economy" 60 horsepower engine as an optional power plant for the new Ford V-8 for 1937 will set at rest definitely rumors of a new "baby" Ford which have been circulating in the automobile industry for the past several years. The new engine, today's statement said, will give surprising fuel economy of a type new to present-day motoring in the United States, although it has been available to motorists in Europe for some years. The new cars will be available in both de luxe and standard body types on the single Ford V-8 112-inch wheelbase chassis. De luxe types will be powered only with the improved 85 horsepower engine. In standard types, either the new 60 horsepower engine or the 85 horsepower engine is optional. The new standard types with the lighter engine are expected to carry the lowest base list price quoted by the Ford Motor Company since the V-8 engine car was introduced by Ford to the popular-price field nearly five years ago. The 7,000 Ford dealers who gathered yesterday for the meeting with the Fords predicted that the two new cars, one intended to give the public maximum performance, the other substantially the Ford market and narrow still further, gave left uncovered by the Ford V-8 and the V-12 Lincoln-Zephyr and Lincoln motor cars, all produced by Ford.

Beyond the new appearance and the two engine sizes, two other important features mark the new 1937 cars. One is a new all-steel body, with new one-piece steel top, as well as steel structure, panels and floor. The other is a new braking system, designed by Ford to give "soft" easy-action control. The brakes are actuated through a cable-and-self-energizing action, providing the safety of steel throughout the entire mechanism.

The 1937 Cadillac and LaSalle models, carrying more improvements than ever included in a single year by the Cadillac Motor Car Company, will go on public display Friday, November 6, Leon E. Chambers, Cadillac-LaSalle distributor, said today. Mr. Chambers made the announcement during a private showing of the new models in the showroom at Stuyvesant Motors where a selected group of newspapermen, business and society viewed the cars for the first time here. Public exhibition of the models will end a period of unusual secrecy by the Cadillac organization which has given rise to numerous rumors regarding features of the forthcoming program. Reports of a radical change in power, a new type of body structure and a new method for stabilizing driving have been widely circulated. There have also been stories of an amazing increase in acceleration, better operating economy and lower prices. Price reduction gossip has been confirmed by company disclosures that it would invade the low medium range in 1937 with prices far lower than ever before quoted by Cadillac.

Four completely new Hudson-built cars, the 1937 Hudson Eight, the Hudson Six, the DeLuxe Terraplane, and a new companion car, the Super-Terraplane, will be formally presented to Kingston today at the showrooms of Peter A. Black, Clinton avenue at Main street, Hudson and Terraplane distributors. Strikingly styled in the most advanced trend, the new cars are longer at the wheelbase by two inches, lower by two inches, wider, roomier and more powerful than preceding models. Characteristically sleek, the lines of the '37 cars flow rearward from the newly designed narrow radiator grille in perfect harmony around an interior said to afford a new conception of roominess and comfort in motor cars. The complete line of Hudson consists of an 8-cylinder car on 129-inch wheelbase, an Eight on 122-inch wheelbase, and a Six on 122-inch wheelbase. Both of the 122-inch wheelbase chassis in the Eight and the Six carry a complete line of bodies, all of which are entirely new this year, while the 129-inch wheelbase chassis is available in four body models—the sedan and touring sedan. Joining the DeLuxe Terraplane this year is a new Super-Terraplane of 161 horsepower featuring the new "Double Carburetor" principle, an engineering advancement introduced by Hudson for 1937. Both DeLuxe and Super-Terraplane carry a complete line of body models on 117-inch wheelbase against 115-inches for 1936. Brilliant new body colors feature both the new Hudsons and Terraplanes, a choice of seven being offered with five additional colors optional at slight extra cost.

Streamlined for 1937 is a new Selective Automatic Shift with the Electric Hand, both exclusive Hudson features, which enable the driver to shift gears with the flick of a finger and the touch of a toe thereby simplifying driving and enhancing ease of control with resultant safety and freedom from fatigue. The combination of the Selective Automatic Shift together with the Electric Hand and the automatic clutch provides all the desirable elements of an automatic transmission system without any of the complications or objections. Mechanical complication is not introduced and the driver is free to select the gear he desires with the minimum of effort.

Holy Name Group Communion Sunday

Sunday is regular monthly Communion Sunday for the Holy Name Society. At St. Mary's Church the society will attend the 8 o'clock Mass in a body and receive Holy Communion. This Mass will also be a memorial Mass offered for the deceased members of St. Mary's Holy Name Society. The month of November is set aside by the Catholic Church to, in a special manner, remember its departed. Many Masses are said during the month for the happy repose of those who have died as faithful members of the church.

During the Forty Hours' Devotion just completed the Holy Name men took part in Nocturnal Adoration, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the evening to 6 o'clock the next morning of Sunday and Monday. On Tuesday evening the men participated in the solemn procession of the Blessed Sacrament at the closing of the exercises.

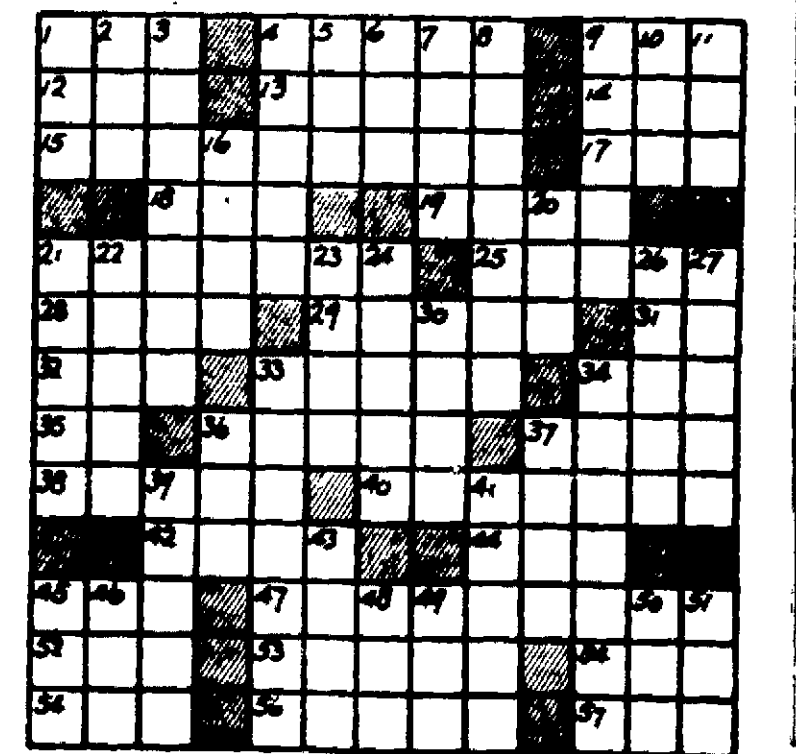

Sunday evening the regular monthly meeting of the society will be held. Following the religious and business session, a social period will be enjoyed at St. Mary's Hall.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By Associated Press.

Near, Yet Far

St. Joseph, Mo.—Two brothers, separated 31 years and living only 14 miles from each other most of the time, were reunited here today. They are Oscar Powell of St. Joseph, and Perry Martie, who adopted his foster parents' name. The brothers, as babies, were placed in foster parents' homes after their parents died.

Peace Plan

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Monday always has been pretty generally recognized as a good wash day, but the Santa Barbara city council made it official.

Police and firemen were instructed to prevent the burning of rubbish, weeds or grass on that day, so the family wash will not be smudged. In cases of conflict with Christmas, New Year's or the Fourth of July, the official wash day will be Tuesday.

Case Dismissed

San Diego, Calif.—Edwin A. Egle, a farmer who bit into a plug of tobacco and clamped down on a nail, sued the store that sold the tobacco and the company that cured it. In settlement, he was awarded enough money for five artificial teeth and a six-months chewing supply.

Uncanny Conscience

Ord, Neb.—County Judge John L. Anderson opened a letter. A dollar bill dropped out with a note. It said: "Years ago while the Anderson grocery was operating I stole an article valued at 49 cents. My conscience has bothered me ever since." The judge gave the dollar to his father, Hans Anderson, who ran the store.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, By the Grace of God, Free and Independent:

"JOHN" Wendler, first name unknown and fictitious, if he be living and to the heirs at law, next of kin, legatees, devisees, assignees and persons in interest of the said "JOHN" Wendler if he be dead and whose names and places of residence are unknown and cannot after due diligence be ascertained. The said "JOHN" Wendler was a brother of the deceased and a son of Christopher Wendler and Barbara Wendler, the father and mother of Anna Fischer, deceased.

To the heirs at law, next of kin, legatees, devisees, assignees and other persons in interest of Mary Doe, said name being fictitious and real name unknown, she having been a sister of Anna Fischer, deceased, and a daughter of Christopher Wendler and Barbara Wendler, the father and mother of Anna Fischer, deceased and whose names and places of residence are unknown and cannot after due diligence be ascertained.

To all unknown heirs at law, next of kin, legatees, devisees, assignees or other parties in interest of the said Anna Fischer, if any, and whose names and places of residence are unknown, they being descendants of Christopher Wendler and Barbara Wendler, the father and mother of Anna Fischer, deceased and whose names and places of residence are unknown and cannot after due diligence be ascertained.

YOU AND EACH OF YOU ARE HEREBY CITED TO SHOW CAUSE at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 23rd day of November 1936 at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why a certain instrument in writing, dated July 7th 1936 relating to both real and personal estate, presented to said Surrogate's Court should not be proved, admitted to probate and recorded as the last Will and Testament of Anna Fischer, late of the City of Kingston, Ulster County, deceased.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the seal of said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed.

WITNESS, Hon. George F. Kaufman, Surrogate of said County of Ulster, at Kingston, N. Y., this 23rd day of October 1936.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Nov. 7 (AP).—Spurred by wage boosts, bonuses, increasing earnings and dividends, industrial leaders rallied briskly in today's stock market.

Many forged into new high ground for the recovery with gains of fractions to three points or so generally and a few as much as five. Transfers were around 1,500,000 shares.

Selling kept the list in a rather narrow range in the first hour, but in the final period heavy buying orders put the ticker tape behind for several minutes.

A further advance in U. S. government securities aided sentiment. Other bonds improved. The price of export copper was given another lift to its highest level in five years. Major commodities more than held their own.

Leading the forward push were the motors, steels, coppers, alcohols, merchandising and specialty issues. Only the rails were backward. The utilities also failed to get far out in front.

Prominent on the upturn were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Rolling Mill, Anaconda, Kennecott, Andes, Cerro de Pasco, Schenley, American Commercial Alcohol, Spiegel-Map-Stern, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Allied Stores, Associated Dry Goods, Path, Patino Mines, Brunswick-Balke-Collender, Standard Oil of N. J., Westinghouse, Crown Cork, du Pont, Sharpe and Dohme, Celanese, Johns-Manville, J. I. Case, American Telephone, Western Union and International Telephone.

Designations for High Court Judges

Designation of justices to hold the various terms of supreme court throughout the Third Judicial District has been completed by the Appellate Division and the following justices have been assigned to hold trial terms in Ulster county during 1937:

March trial term, Justice Schenck. May trial term, Justice Russell. October trial term, Justice Schrick. December trial term, Justice Foster.

The March term will bring to Ulster county Justice Gilbert V. Schenck for his first trial term since he has been on the supreme court bench.

Justice Harry E. Schrick has been assigned to the following trial terms in the district:

First Monday in February to continue the January term in Albany county.

First Monday in December to continue the November trial term in Albany.

First Monday in May at Columbia county.

First Monday in April at Rensselaer county.

First Monday in September at Schoharie county.

First Monday in March at Sullivan county.

First Monday in October at Ulster county.

Naturalization court terms will be held in Ulster county by Mr. Justice Schrick on the second Friday in May and the fifth Thursday in September.

Regular special terms of supreme court will be held in Ulster county by Justice Schrick on the second Friday of January and on each other first Friday of every month except July and August.

Bleakley Thanks Press for Helping

New York, Nov. 7 (AP).—An open letter of thanks to his supporters was made public today by William F. Bleakley, defeated candidate for governor.

The letter, addressed to the editors of daily and weekly newspapers in New York state, was released by the Republican state committee. It follows:

"In victory it is easy to remember. In defeat it is easier to forget. I write this to tell you that I am grateful for the support that you were good enough to give me, or, failing that, for the fairness of the news items and editorials you may have published about me.

"I am similarly grateful for the support given me by the people of your county and I am equally appreciative of the reception accorded me and the hospitality shown me in the various counties which I visited.

"It is a source of regret to me that time will not permit of my writing a personal letter of thanks to each of the editors of papers, daily and weekly, in the state. However, lacking this time and adequate facilities, I hope this will serve to tell you I am grateful for your many courtesies to me.

"Sincerely,

"WILLIAM F. BLEAKLEY."

Permission Given Tschirky to Marry

An application of August Tschirky to modify a judgment of divorce in an action between Elsa H. Tschirky, plaintiff, and August Tschirky, defendant, has been heard by Justice Harry E. Schrick and an order has been granted whereby the decree of divorce is modified permitting the defendant to remarry. The plaintiff and defendant were married on January 28, 1932, and a decree of divorce was granted January 9, 1932.

By the order of the court at that time the defendant was forbidden to remarry, except with the express order of the court.

An application has now been made to the court on affidavit of several persons, stating that the conduct of defendant has been exceptionally good during the past several years and on those affidavits Justice Schrick has signed an order making it lawful for the defendant, August Tschirky, to remarry. John N. Vanderlyn appeared as counsel for the defendant.

Mrs. Hutton Missing From Home Here

Mrs. Marguerite A. Hutton, 67, of 237 Hasbrouck avenue, is reported missing from her home since early Tuesday morning. She was heard to leave the house and it was thought that she was on her way to the polls to cast her ballot, but she did not vote that day and since then no trace of her has been found. Her husband, William B. Hutton, died last June. She is described as 5 feet 2 inches tall, with grey hair and light blue eyes. When last seen she wore a black coat and brown hat. The police department was asked by members of the family to institute a search for the missing woman but up to noon today had failed to locate a trace of her.

Farley Sees Victory

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP).—Asserting that Republican state organizations had been seriously crippled by three successive defeats, Democratic Chairman James A. Farley today intimated fresh victories for his party in coming elections. In a press conference he predicted yesterday that Maryland, New Jersey and California would name Democratic governors. He said the next time they go to the polls.

World's Most Persistent Flier Goes Up Every Day For 7 Years

Kansas City, Mo. (AP).—On a foggy day here November 16, 1936, Dr. John D. Brock climbed into the cockpit of his private plane to start the most unusual record in aviation.

Daily since then, in foul weather or fair, the "flying Doc" has taken his plane into the air for at least half an hour. While Charles Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart and others were thrilling the world with daring exploits, the quiet-spoken optical manufacturer was piling up a safety record unapproached anywhere in the annals of flying.

The Gehrig of Aviation

What "Lou" Gehrig, New York Yankee first baseman, is to baseball, Dr. Brock is to aviation. Gehrig has played in more than 1,600 consecutive games—Dr. Brock is rounding out his seventh year of daily flights. On November 15 he will take his 2,557th consecutive air trip.

The world's most persistent flier has been an aviation enthusiast since his first ride as a passenger in 1911. He was taught to fly in 1924 by the veteran "Tex" LaGrone, whose whimsical ambition is to be the "oldest LIVING pilot." Perhaps that was why Brock from the beginning was cautious at the controls.

Flies Rain or Shine

In 1929 he started flying daily to prove his contention the weather was never too bad for at least a short spin each day. He flew through sunshine, rain, fog, snow, sleet and high winds to win his point. At the close of the first year, Dr. Brock, who used the same plane and engine each time, had probably done more than any other individual to prove the reliability of modern aircraft.

No other flier has ever threatened the unique record since hung up by the sportsman pilot. The "Doc" himself has no idea how long he will continue to fly daily. "Perhaps I'll quit at the end of the 10-year mark," he smiles. "Perhaps not."

Brock, who keeps a chart of each flight, estimates he was in the air 425 hours and flew 50,000 miles the first year. He swelled the mileage in 1931 with a nation-wide air tour. On October 1 of this year his log book showed 6,125 flying hours—and 600,000 air miles covered in 2,513 flights.

By now as much at home in the air as on the ground, Brock shaves with an electric razor while piloting. He flies one of his three planes regularly on long business and pleasure trips. To keep his daily flights from conflicting with fishing, his other hobby, he purchased a 2,700-acre tract in the Ozark mountains in 1934 and built his own airport.

80 Page Program For Victory Ball

Commander William T. Roedell yesterday started delivering programs for the Victory Ball to be held Wednesday night, November 11, by Kingston Post, American Legion, in the Municipal Auditorium.

This year's program is an 80-page affair, containing a full program of the headline entertainment, a full list of patrons to the ball, a complete history of Kingston Post, and advertisements representing the various business establishments hereabouts, fraternal groups and other associations and individuals.

The book's cover is of blue with gold lettering, announcing the 18th annual Victory Ball, one which will go down in the history of Kingston Post as among the most successful ones ever promoted by the ex-servicemen.

To Commander Roedell should go much credit, say his committee for the success of the ball. Financially the event is "over the top" now, before the doors swing open to the public. The program book alone represents more than $2,500, and the sale of patron tickets should reach a new high, the way it is being conducted.

Socially, the ball should be one of the crowning highlights in Legion records. Commander Roedell was very particular in picking the entertainment to be presented and in selecting the two orchestras to play for dancing. Jack Linton's Clinton Ford band, an outstanding musical talent and Charlie Barnett, radio bandmaster, will be on hand to alternate with Linton in playing.

About The Folks

Rita Hahn is recovering nicely following an appendicitis operation performed on Monday by Dr. Meyers.

Miss Ruth M. Stone of 105 Abel street spent Thursday in New York city and on Thursday evening attended the showing of the play "Idiot's Delight."

Local Death Record

Highland, Nov. 7.—The body of Mrs. Susie Sledge Barnum of New York city was interred in the Savage family plot in the Highland Cemetery Friday afternoon, with the Rev. D. S. Haynes conducting the committal service. The Savage family at one time lived at the river and it is presumed that she was a member of that family.

Egbert E. Thompson, formerly of the town of Woodstock, died Friday, November 6, at Edgewater, N. J., where he resided. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. May Thompson, and three sons, also one brother, Frank Thompson, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Hiddett, of Yonkers. Funeral services will be held at the funeral home of V. N. Lasher in Woodstock on Monday, November 9, at 2 p. m. Interment will be in Woodstock cemetery.

The funeral of John H. Brown was held on Friday afternoon at 2 p. m. from the Wolf Brothers Funeral Home where services were in charge of the Rev. Gadsden. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The casket bearers were Robert Van Derzee, Samuel Jackson, Lee Reynolds, Irving Smith, Lee Thomas and John McPhail. The remains were laid to rest in Mt. Zion cemetery, the Rev. Mr. Gadsden officiating at the grave.

William H. Hornbeck of High Falls died at the Bonestell Sanatorium, Thursday, November 6, aged 77 years. Surviving are his wife, formerly Alice Sheldon, one daughter, Mrs. Burnett Churchwell, of High Falls; one son, W. D. Hornbeck of Detroit, Mich.; two grandsons, Robert and William Hornbeck of Detroit. His funeral will be held at the High Falls Reformed Church, Monday at 2 p. m. Interment will be in Rosevale Plains cemetery. The Rev. Clarence Howard, pastor of the High Falls church, will officiate.

Ellenville, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Nancy L. Curtis died at her home on Hanzchild street on Monday, November 2, after an illness of two months, at the age of 81 years. She was born at Cornwall on November 20, 1854, the daughter of David Rumsey and Mary Palmer Rumsey. Forty-five years ago she married DeWitt Curtis, who died about 28 years ago. Surviving are several nieces and nephews. Mrs. Curtis was a member of St. John's Memorial Church and of the Parish Aid. Funeral services were held on Wednesday, November 4, at St. John's Church, the Rev. George P. Hiatt, officiating. Burial was in Faintekill cemetery.

The funeral of Mary A. Flaherty, who died in this city Thursday after a short illness, was held today at 9.30 from the N. D. J. Murphy Funeral Home, 44 Maiden Lane, and at St. Joseph's Church at 10 o'clock where a solemn high Mass of requiem was celebrated for the repose of her soul by the Rev. John H. Manning, assisted by the Rev. Edmund Burke and the Rev. Louis M. Cusack. A profusion of beautiful floral offerings with numerous Mass cards were placed near the casket, attesting to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The remains were laid to rest in St. Mary's cemetery, the Rev. Father Manning officiating at the grave.

Ellenville, Nov. 7.—Miss Ella Kohlberg of this village died at the Veterans' Memorial Hospital Tuesday, November 3, after a sudden, short illness, at the age of 41. She was born at Union Hill N. J., on May 24, 1895, the daughter of Philip Kohlberg and his wife, Elizabeth Miller Kohlberg. Miss Kohlberg came to this village about 12 years ago and shortly after her arrival here accepted a position as bookkeeper with the Marshall-Jackson Co.

son Co. She remained in their employ for six years. For the past five years she has occupied the position of assistant bookkeeper in the office of the Ellenville Electric Co. She was a member of the Reformed Church of Ellenville and of the Shawangunk Country Club, also secretary-treasurer of the Country Club Auxiliary. Surviving are her father, Philip Kohlberg, of New York city, one brother, Philip Kohlberg, Jr., of Brooklyn and a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Pohl of Keansburg. There are also two nieces and two nephews. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Wood and Lambert Funeral Chapel, the Rev. Perry Van Dyke officiating. Burial was in Faintekill cemetery.

buildings and loss of life among civilians."

The Reuters News Agency correspondent in Madrid said the government officials have gone to Valencia.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was informed by the Spanish ambassador that the government was "leaving" Madrid. He did not, however specify whether the evacuation already had taken place.

The British government's last direct word from Madrid was at 1 a. m. (8 p. m. Friday, Eastern Standard Time) when the Charge d'Affaires, G. A. D. Ogilvie-Forbes, reported he had been informed the government was moving to Valencia, "leaving a military government in charge."

Musical Insects

For centuries of Japan's long history, musical insects have been objects of affection and veneration. Emperors have fancied them. Nobles have hunted them. Poets have lavished upon them a literature of the classically perfect, but exacting, verse-form called uta and haikai, in which profound thought is phrased or swift vision brushed, in seventeen or thirty-one, not words, but syllables. —Literary Digest.

Shipspace

"Shipspace" is an English word, with no equivalent in any foreign tongue. It comes down from sailing days when the rigging of Britain's ships first sang in Atlantic winds. Even then it meant more to a seaman than orderliness or cleanliness. It meant soundness in every part—master marmors on the poop, and a crew alert to do their bidding.

Where Beck Was Born

Among medieval German brewers one known as Einbeck was the most famous. His beer, brewed only in winter, went to every European country and to Asia Minor.

DECEASED

$50 Will Buy A Smart Winter Wardrobe

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York, (AP).—Accessories set the seal of chic on winter wardrobes bought on budgets.

One simple coat and dress plus interchangeable accessories produce the smartest results for the girl who dresses on a limited allowance. A coat of dark gray wool, cut on the simplest lines and untrimmed by fur, has its smartness increased by the addition of a slim shirtwaist frock of gray wool crepe and wine-colored velvet scarf, hat and gloves.

It may be worn also with a dress and accessories of deep blue, rich green or black, which make it look like a different costume. Any one of the outfits—coat, dress and accessories—may be assembled for $50 dollars.

Simplicity Main Requirement

Simplicity of cut is the primary requisite for clothes bought on a limited budget. Some women insist on quality of fabric, too, choosing good material for both coat and dress and spending little on accessories, which they change often. Others prefer to buy a coat of the best material they can afford, since it must withstand the hard knocks of bad weather, add to it a very inexpensive dress and brighten it with accessories costing as much as they can spend.

An all black outfit—coat, dress and hat—is a favorite, since it provides the most effective background for accessories.

Scarfs Lead Variety

Scarfs work wonders on inexpensive frocks. Many women buy a half yard of striped silk, lame or colorful velvet and make their own accents to smarten a simple quiet dress. One chic New Yorker has a black wool tunic frock with which she wears scarfs of striped lame or cravat silk crossed sash-fashion and tucked into the deep vee neckline. Similar tricks can be turned with colorful clips caught at the neckline.

Belts make more effective changes. A plain strip of suede or leather with a buckle made of two gold curtain rings, fabric girdles tied in a soft one-loop bow, and stitched fabric belts fastened with wood buckles are among the smartest which can be made at home.

Doubling For Evening

Blouses are one of the greatest fashion aids to inexpensive wardrobes. With a skirt to match her coat and three blouses, the woman who dresses on a small allowance can evolve costumes for any occasion. The addition of a simple wool shirtwaist creates an outfit for spectator sports wear or shopping, a colorful blouse of very sheer crepe or chiffon makes its wearer ready for tea and a lame or satin blouse linked to the skirt produces an outfit for an informal dinner or the movies.

Two piece evening costumes combining a gown with a low decollete and a crisp jacket of the same material have proved a fashion life saver to many women who can spend little on clothes. With the jacket, the dress is ready for a dinner party and without it the frock, accented by a jeweled clip or a flower in the hair, can step out to the gayest party.

Breakfast Nook

When an old-fashioned kitchen is being stream-lined and an entire new unit installed, the large pantry closet that was always found in such a room is often unnecessary with the new arrangement. A breakfast nook can easily be built in this space. Benches can be built in on either side and unbolstered, a table with only one leg at the end, and a mirror on the back wall to give the appearance of depth will make an attractive nook.

FOR LIMITED BUDGETS

The girl who dresses on a limited clothes budget can buy this smart winter outfit for about $50. The coat of dark gray wool, designed with a collar which can be worn open or buttoned close to the throat and finished with a black leather belt, costs between $25 and $30. Under it is a simple shirtwaist frock of gray crepe costing from $5 to $10. Felt hat, velvet scarf and suede-finished fabric gloves are all wine colored and if the scarf is made at home the trio can be had for about $7. The bag and shoes are black. Models similar to them can be bought for a total of less than $10.

No. 1028

Standard sports yarn used on coarse needles makes this highly styled sport coat and skirt. New fashion notes are centered on the collar and lapels, also the ribbing which is used to accentuate the waistline. The blouse is made of shirled lace and features a youthful high turtle neck. Copy this outfit in any leisure moments—the directions for making it will be mailed to you at once upon receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope to Editor Women's Page, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y.

Jeweled Belts Add Chic

Many a sober afternoon frock is smartened by a jeweled belt this winter. A distinctive dress of black silk treeshark crepe, reflecting the season's trend for rich fabrics, is brightened by a black suede belt studded with gold and turquoise flowers. The turquoise note is repeated in the slide fastening which runs down the front. A black hat, bag and gloves complete the picture.

Gives Directions For Baking Apples

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 7.—A tender, but slightly firm apple of good shape, attractive color and truly flavor, with both tartness and sweetness, is the standard set for baked apples, says Professor Marian C. Pfund of the New York state college of home economics.

She offers directions for baking apples: three pounds of apples or about 10 medium-sized ones; one-third cup of sugar, about one teaspoon for each apple; and a pinch of salt if desired.

Select apples of uniform size, wash and core them. Place them in a baking dish with a cover, pour the sugar into the core, centers, cover and bake them in a hot oven at about 400 degrees Fahrenheit for about 30 minutes. When they are done, they should be tender but not soft, and should keep their shape. Let them stand in the covered baking dish ten minutes after taking them from the oven. This will complete the cooking and help them to keep their shape, which may be destroyed if the baking is completed in the oven.

According to Professor Pfund, longer baking is needed for larger apples and for those which have been stored for a long time. A high temperature for a short time maintains a better flavor than that in apple cooked at a low temperature for a long time.

Double Purpose Closet

Sometimes one has use for a large living room closet, but also needs the wall space the door occupies. The door itself may be turned into a hook case by removing the center panel, installing shelves with backs, and rehanging the door with heavy butts.

Novel flower containers and candlesticks can be made out of gourds, small squashes.

Modern Monograms Easily Made

They're Popular To Smarten Linens

By ELSABETH MAY BLONDEL
Prepared by McCall's Magazine For The Freeman.

The etiquette of monograms isn't what it used to be. Not only have the styles of letters become interestingly modern, but the arrangements no longer have to follow the rules of our grandmothers.

It is all because it is now possible for anybody to embroider "letter-perfect" and distinguished-looking monograms on all kinds of house linens. That is why monogramming has become so popular. With one of the new inexpensive transfer patterns and a hot iron, you can stamp your initials in less time than it takes to tell; and the right stitch is really very simple.

Individualism Correct

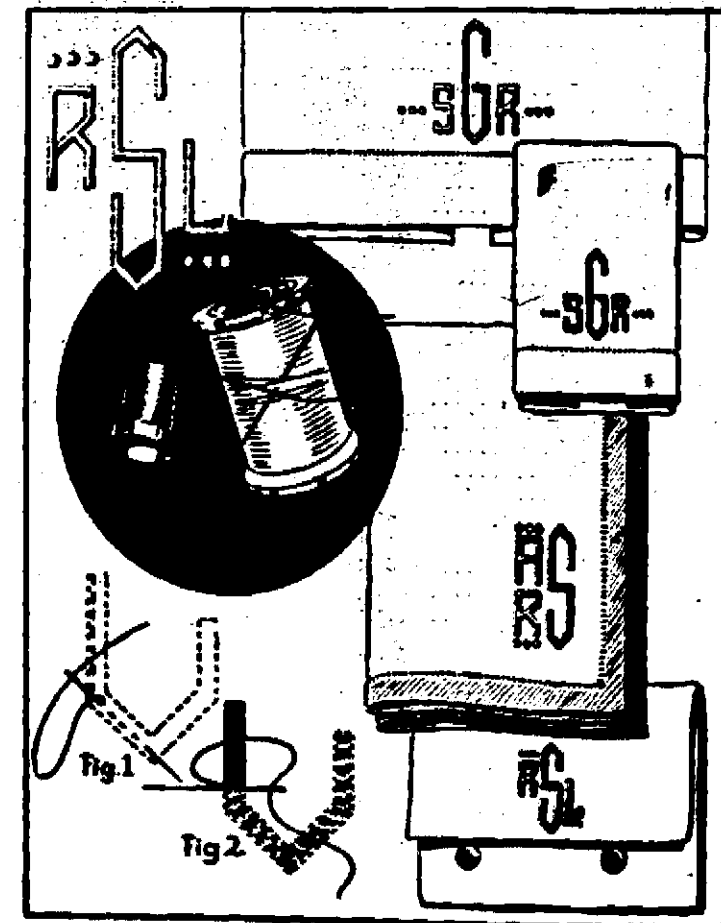

With the increasing popularity of make-your-own monograms, it is now "correct" to use your own individual taste in arrangements and color schemes. And there is a wide range of letter styles from which to choose.

"Modern style" letters are the "last word" in smartness for tablecloths, napkins, pillowcases, sheets, towels, washcloths, etc. The letters can be selected in the best size for each type of article. The monogram for a large tablecloth is usually 4 1/2 inches high; the 2-inch size is good for sheets and the 3-inch for smaller things.

In arranging, the initials may be in straight sequence, as in your name; they should be all the same size for this. If you prefer two sizes, the surname initial should be the largest and in the center, with a smaller one on each side. Or the large initial may come last, with the smaller letters in front, one above the other, with dots to fill out the rectangular block.

Variations

For a dinner cloth, the monogram is often placed at opposite ends, in the center facing the ends of the table, and far enough in to be just above the service; or at opposite right-hand corners, about 15 inches

TAKE NEEDLE AND THREAD...

Modern style letters like these can be embroidered at home with little effort. First outline the stamped initial in running stitch (Figure 1), making a short stitch on the wrong side and a longer one on the right side. Then pad the space between these lines with longish runs of running stitch, overlapping the stitches in the rows. Cover the surface several times in this way and make the padding higher in the center. Then work in each stitch (Figure 2) over this padding, laying stitches evenly and carefully. For the best effects, use an embroidery hoop.

diagonally in from the corner of the table. A small cloth uses only one monogram at the head of the table, making a short stitch on the wrong side and a longer one on the right side. Then pad the space between these lines with longish runs of running stitch, overlapping the stitches in the rows. Cover the surface several times in this way and make the padding higher in the center. Then work in each stitch (Figure 2) over this padding, laying stitches evenly and carefully. For the best effects, use an embroidery hoop.

Approach of Winter Brings New Interest in Plants

A Practical Window Garden

With the approach of winter, house plants take on a new meaning. Although we have had them in abundance during the warmer months, they have been secondary in our interest to the colorful outdoor display. But with fall frosts and fading gardens, they become our only means of contact with living and blooming nature.

October ushers in many a plant which we have not seen for many months. At this time of year the florist realizes the revived interest in house plants and does his best to provide a large selection.

Perhaps most beautiful and surely the most colorful at this season are the chrysanthemums. They come in a rainbow variety of clear, sparkling colors, and range in height from a few inches to several feet. A fascinating aspect of "mums" growing in pots is that they develop rapidly after we buy them. It is interesting to watch them progress, forming new buds and finally full blooms.

Another lovely plant is the St. Paulia, or African violet, whose lavender and purple violet-like blossoms form a lovely contrast to the many green foliage plants. St. Paulias are a thrifty, hungry tribe, and need plenty of water and plant food. Do not spray them, however, as the crowns and foliage are likely to rot. It is better to water from the saucer, or place the pot in a tray of water.

The nephthytis liberica, in spite of its name, is a fine trailing vine for indoors. It has leaves shaped like an arrowhead, and is sometimes called the arrowhead philodendron. There are several true philodendron vines, all very hardy, long-lasting plants.

The dieffenbachia is a tall flowering plant, much like the outdoor cannas, and almost as colorful. It has white and green-spotted leaves. The peperomia and sansevieria are particularly good foliage plants, which give a continuous green display, and endure the dry air of heated homes.

There are many types of ivies, some of which need careful attention. The English ivy is most popular and the easiest to grow. They thrive in water alone, and may be used in many types of containers. The miniature varieties are particularly suitable for wall decoration in the living room, and they will last many weeks with practically no care.

SMART NEW PARTY IDEAS QUICKLY BREAKS UP CLIQUES

They drift in by twos and fours. The excitement of greetings—laving wraps aside—gathering in the living room. That dangerous moment of your party. If two, or several, go into a huddle—if they “gang up” to talk about Mrs. Dusenberry's new clothes—Marion's baby—mothers-in-law—golf or football scores—the success of your party is slipping.

Quick, Moments! The Ice-Breaker
Prepare in advance as many cards as you will have guests. On one card write or print a question and on another print the answer; for instance, one card will ask, “Longest River?” another will carry the answer, “Amazon.” Another will ask, “Highest Mountain?” another will carry the answer, “Everest.” The cards for men will ask the questions and the cards for the girls will have the answers. The girl having the answer to a man's card pairs with him for the evening.

The life of your party is in variety of games and clever ideas. Few people like to play any one game very long and it is a good plan to have a quiet game follow an active one.

There are many suggestions for games in our new 40-page booklet, GOOD PARTIES. Ideas to make your party a great success in fun, frolic and merriment.

Unpredictable Veil Future of F. D. R.

This is the first in a series of four articles in which the answers are sought from history to the questions the nation is asking about President Roosevelt's second term.

By ALEXANDER GEORGE

Washington (AP)—Second-term presidents frequently find the job smoother sailing than some courses.

But if Franklin D. Roosevelt had any inclination, when he learned of his victory, to dream about easier piloting ahead, he had only to look at history to realize that the second four years in the White House usually have brought foul weather as well as fair.

11 PRESIDENTS RE-ELECTED.

Washington (AP)—Eleven men have been elected twice to the Presidency. They were:

George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Grover Cleveland, William McKinley, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge served more than one term, but neither was elected twice. Each succeeded to the White House from the vice-presidency on the death of a President in office, and then was elected President in his own right at the end of his part term.

The course of the second New Deal administration will be contingent upon many uncertain factors—plans as yet undeveloped or unrevealed by Mr. Roosevelt, domestic and international developments of the next four years and the reaction of the Congress, the Supreme Court, and of the public to those developments as well as to Presidential actions and proposals.

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER CASES
President Wilson campaigned successfully for re-election on his record of keeping America out of Europe's quarrel. His second administration was but a month old when he asked congress to declare war on Germany.

F. D. R. IN TRIUMPH RETURN TO WASHINGTON

Base Washington, to which political triumphs are the rule rather than the exception, turned out a throng of 10,000 people to greet President Roosevelt upon his return to the White House after the election. The Second Term

OFF TO A REXING START

Going into their second term, President Roosevelt and Manager Farley are relatively free of two first-term worries: (1) Patronage redistribution, which always follows a change of party-in-power; (2) Getting ready for a re-election campaign.

Usual Characteristics.

The 11th United States President to be re-elected and the 13th to serve more than one term, Mr. Roosevelt presumably will begin his second term with the traditional freedom from re-election worries but with the outlook of a “shortened whip” on Congress.

To first-term Presidents, the prospect of submitting their records in office to the voters within less than four years after inauguration and of setting the political stage for re-election usually plays a part in determining their policies and actions. Second-term executives can advance their programs with less concern for their own political fortunes.

On the other hand, second-term Presidents customarily have to deal with a congressional personnel less bound to them for re-election prospects or for campaign leadership. A stiffening in congressional opposition to second administrations is almost axiomatic in American politics due largely to gains by the rival major party in the national legislature, particularly in the last two years of such administrations.

Effects Do Happen.

Another second-term characteristic is a Presidential tendency toward consolidation and rounding-out of programs which have been inaugurated in a first term. Many expect Mr. Roosevelt to follow this course, although unprecedented Supreme Court invalidation of New Deal measures may complicate a follow-through program.

Unforeseen developments, moreover, frequently upset an administration's “apple cart.” A month after President Wilson took office for his second term, he found his cherished role of America as a peacemaker in the European holocaust impossible of realization and he went before Congress to ask a declaration of “war to the uttermost” against the German government.

Grover Cleveland, serving his second term, hardly had got his fishing rods stowed away in the White House when a business slump, the panic of 1893, swept the country. In Cleveland's case, there had been a one-term administration so in his second regime he could not pick up where he had left off in his first.

Recovery Aids.

In his second term, President Roosevelt apparently will have the advantage of an advancing recovery from one of the worst of American business depressions although a tremendous army of citizens on federal relief rolls and other depression by-products remain acute problems.

As a second-term he will have the traditional advantage of a patronage problem largely settled. When a President is elected to a second term there is no wholesale change among office-holders—a familiar source of inter-party criticism and intra-party friction.

Four years of White House training and experience is rated an invaluable asset of second-term Presidents. They know the administrative and legislative ropes. They have the advantage of having worked with legislative leaders of their parties and of knowing intimately their traits and capacities.

Experience Helps.

They have knowledge of the talents and shortcomings of their administrative aids. They have had opportunity to learn of conditions in virtually all of the states and to ascertain ways of “reading the public pulse.” They have a background of familiarity with foreign relations including highly confidential information that is never made public.

New Dealers in the recent campaign and spokesmen for the “New Deal” in virtually every other campaign since 1864 have employed, as a re-election argument, Lincoln's classic maxim: “It is not good policy to swap horses while crossing a stream.”

Tomorrow: The “Crown Prince.”

Yellow Jackets Oppose Strong Artillery Eleven Sunday, 2:30

Harris Brown, backer of the Richmond Yellow Jackets, hopes for a fair day Sunday, so his gridders may have a chance to show their strength against the West Point Artillery.

The contest between the Servicenter gang and the Soldiers will be played at the Kingston Fair Grounds, starting at 2:30 o'clock, and promises plenty of action.

In years past, the Artillerymen always put up hard fights against the Wasps, giving their best, and making the home club display all the good football they knew to please the patrons.

Roy Stewart, booker of the Soldier eleven, boasts of a good club, and predicts that the Jackets will have to do their best playing of the season to come out on top. "I think we have one of the strongest teams that ever represented the Artillery," said Stewart in signing for the contest.

Booking Manager Al Flanagan procured the Artillery in a talk with Stewart during the Army-College game. "Our boys would rather play Kingston than any other club in the Hudson valley," the soldier booker said. "Although we have a tentative date with Newburgh, I am going to call that off to go to Kingston. Furthermore, I'll add: We'll trim you."

Challenge Too Much Flanagan wouldn't let such a challenge go, and immediately booked the Artillery. The rest is up to the Brownies themselves in what looks like a red hot grid contest.

Coach Jerry Dann had the Wasps out for two long practices this week, greasing signals and going through grimaces. "We want to be on our toes for the Artillery," he said, "because the West Pointers are coming to Kingston with a strong outfit, set to rolling up a big score."

Dann has not announced his line-up, but advance notices convey the information that "Zip" Zaccaro, former Kingston High School and college player, will be in the Jacket backfield.

Don Beany will be at center in place of Charlie Ralbie who has quit for the season on account of business reasons. Beany first came to Kingston with the Artillery about five years ago, joined the local eleven shortly after and since his honorable discharge from the army has made this city his home.

The game will be played in the open, without the large canvas side-walls used for the other home game played by the Jackets. Expense is too heavy for rental of the big cloth, and the last time the players spent so much energy putting it up that they were exhausted by game time. It is the hope of the Jackets that those who attend tomorrow's contest will be good sports enough to contribute when ticket sellers pass among the crowd.

Battery A Quintet And Seconds Lose

Battery A basketball team got off to a poor start at the 156th Field Artillery armory, Friday, by losing to the Poughkeepsie Pureolls, 48-17. Walter Dollinger, Bridge City baseball star, romped over the boards to the amusement of the Soldiers, scoring 26 points himself. In the preliminary, the same Pureoll outfit warmed up by defeating the Battery A Seconds, 21-26.

Kingston High Harriers Score Decisive Win Over Arlington

The Kingston High School harriers closed the most glorious season in recent cross-country history by securing a powerful Arlington High running array by the decisive margin of 19-36. Displaying their championship caliber under the influence of spirited competition, the local hill hikers made a clean sweep of the top-ranking positions in the record breaking time of 13 minutes and 8/10 seconds. Coach Kinella's charges were geared to a record-breaking pitch and responded to the Arlington threat with a superb display of dash and dashing. The Bridge City brigade had previously copied a technical verdict over the localities in the Mid-Hudson meet conducted at Bard College. Coach Fred Leahy's runners were powerful in the face of a sparkling Maroon unit that asserted once again its championship qualities that have marked their efforts all season. Winning up with a sensational victory in the post-mortem affair, Coach Kinella's aggregation closed the 1936 ledger with an overwhelming victory balance showing on the scoreboard.

Before the season's largest gallery, the home ran their finale over the arduous home course in the record-shattering time of 13 minutes.

N. Y. M. A. to Offer Varied Grid Attack

Cornwall-on-Hudson, Nov. 7.—As a result of the special tutoring given by Chris Cagle, former West Point backfield ace, acting as guest coach during the past week, the New York Military Academy football team will offer a varied attack in its annual "Little Army-Navy Game" with Admiral Farragut Naval Academy, of Toms River, N. J., at the Polo Grounds on Armistice Day, Wednesday, November 11. Emphasis has been placed on plays carrying scoring possibilities from midfield, both from long passes and from formations calculated to shake the ball carrier free on running plays.

The entire corps of cadets is looking forward to this final game of the season with keen interest. In addition to the game itself, the corps will offer a program of military maneuvers on entering the Polo Grounds, headed by the Cadet band.

The meeting between these two academies was staged at the Polo Grounds for the first time last year, and proved a highly interesting addition to the Metropolitan scholastic gridiron program.

The New York Military Academy enters the game as defenders of the Harold G. Hoffman Trophy, awarded annually to the winner. The Cornwall-on-Hudson eleven took last year's game by a score of 12 to 0.

French Look Like Horse Show Kings

New York, Nov. 7 (AP).—Already in possession of one major trophy, the French Army Officers, fortified with a fine string of jumpers, have established themselves as the combination to beat in the remaining international military events at the National Horse Show.

The three officers—Capt. Pierre Clave, Capt. Francois Durand and Lieut. Amador De Bussel—jumped to the front on the opening night and then successfully thrust aside the challenges of their rivals to win the high score competition. Six foreign teams are competing.

The tri-color representatives finished the three-night competition for the trophy presented by President Arturo Alessandri of Chile with a low aggregate of 19 1/2 faults.

The United States, winner of the event last year, was runner-up with 23 faults. Then came Canada, Irish Free State, Sweden, Great Britain and Chile. The South Americans had a good chance to finish higher but were disqualified when one of their horses refused a fence three times.

Today's military event brought several of the officers into action again in quest of the Bowman Challenge Cup.

Ready for the contest were four Canadian horses, two each from Great Britain and France, one each from the United States army team and Irish Free State and two more owned by Capt. A. A. Frierson of West Point and Capt. James M. Callant of the Brooklyn army base.

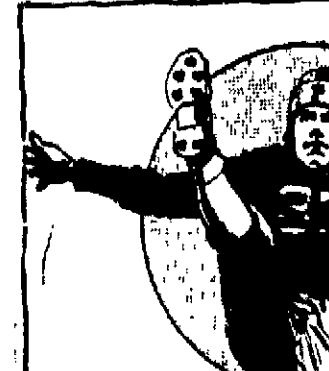

KASICH CAGERS WIN, 21-26. AS "SURE SHOT" FREER STARS

Going into the battle when his team, the Kasich A. C. was trailing the Flashes, "Sure Shot" Freer tucked away nine points to save the day for the billiard boys at Holy Cross Hall, Friday. Due to Freer's shooting, the Kasich team won 21-26. Barnes of the Flashes was high scorer with 13 points.

HE HAS IT ON THE OTHER TRIPLE-THREAT BACKS IN THAT HE IS ALSO A FINE BLOCKER

THE WAY HE KICKS, PUNTING BECOMES A MEANS OF GAINING GROUND - NOT MERELY A DEFENSIVE WEAPON

HE WAS A HALFBACK LAST FALL ... THIS SEASON HE'S FILLING IN AT FULLBACK

Don't be misled by that soft-spoken, mild and courteous manner off the field or by that first name, Cecil Isbell of Purdue's Bollermakers can raise plenty of trouble for opponents on the gridiron without asking any quarter.

Isbell, who with John Drake makes the Purdue offense something to be feared, has demonstrated he is one of the nation's outstanding backs by standout performances thus far this season. He does everything well—kicking, running, passing and blocking—and his swivel-hipped running stride already has Purdue supporters calling him one of the finest open-field sprinters ever to play for the institution.

The handsome, auburn-haired youngster was a halfback last season. This year, due to the tragic death of Tom McGannon and the loss of Lowell Decker through the shower-room explosion, Isbell was shifted to the fullback spot, where he combines the speed and elusiveness of a halfback with the slashing drive of a fullback.

The breakers went against Isbell in 1935. A sophomore then, he had gone through his entire school career at Sam Houston high, Houston, Tex., without a serious injury of any kind. But in his first collegiate game, "Cecce," as he is known to his mates, dislocated a shoulder.

For the remainder of the season he saw service as a kicker and passer, but his running style was handicapped by a chain that practically manacled his left arm to his side.

This season his shoulder is in shape again. In the first two games he averaged more than 13 yards a try on running plays. In the third game, against Chicago, he scored one touchdown and shot passes for three more. He tosses a soft ball instead of a heavy one that is hard for the receiver to handle.

Isbell is one of the most popular men on the Purdue campus, where he is majoring in history and economics. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, as is his brother, Cody, who is a Bollermaker backfield reserve.

"Princeton Will Survive" That the ivy-draped towers of Princeton are in danger of crumbling because he has elected to play professional football, strikes Les Kaufman, yesterday's Tiger star and today's New York Yankee backfield ace, as a highly amusing thought.

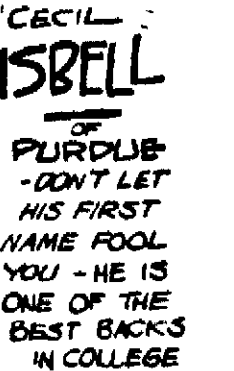

"I don't feel a bit like a fellow who has committed a crime, or has been in the least untrue to the football traditions of his alma mater," Kaufman said when asked about it in the dressing room just prior to the daily practice.

"Football is now one of the higher ranking professional sports. The type of game played, the character of the men engaged in it, and the support given it by the football fans everywhere have lifted it beyond reproach—it has become a sporting enterprise basically no different from that offered on the college gridirons.

Temporary Job "With me, as I believe it is with means to an end; not a career. I hope to be a surgeon. My football earnings will defray medical school and hospital expenses. Personally, I think I'm fortunate in possessing some football ability to capitalize; my future would be more of a problem if I didn't have this chance to play professional football.

"What do I think of it as a game? How does it compare with college football?"

"Well, I have been around the pro game only a short time. But I have observed enough to know that I've heard about pro gridiron loafing. I know now it can't be done; there are too many good players hustling and scrapping for jobs.

"I think a lot of it is advanced football, too—really post-graduate stuff. The other night the Brooklyn Tigers used a spread formation that was new to me. Happily they didn't decide to run that first play at me, or to throw a pass in my backfield zone. I'm afraid I'd have been at a loss. Of course experience is essential in these things, and I'm hoping I'll get a lot of it in a hurry.

"Yes, I'm glad I've turned professional, with the Yankees. I like football, and the pros play it under what appear to be highly satisfying conditions."

Jarrett Plans Personal Appeal

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett, suspended by the Amateur Athletic Union after the American Olympic committee dismissed her from the swimming team en route to the 1936 Olympics, planned today to make a personal appeal for reinstatement before the A. A. U.'s annual convention in Houston, Texas, next month.

She told her hopes yesterday while demonstrating her backstroke swimming in the Hensseler Polytechnic Institute pools.

NATIONAL HOCKEY SEASON GETS INTO FULL SWING

New York, Nov. 7 (AP). The National Hockey League season gets into full swing this week-end with three more teams making their seasonal debuts and three of the four which helped hoist the curtain Thursday playing their second games of the season.

By Sunday night only the Montreal Maroons will still be looking forward to their first regular-season game.

Still hampered by their legal difficulties, the New York Americans move on to Toronto tonight to tackle the Maple Leafs, rivals of long standing. The Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens, rivals for the "most altered club" title this season, meet at Montreal to inaugurate their seasons.

Tomorrow's single scrap sends the Detroit Red Wings, who hoped right to the head of the standing by beating their Stanley Cup rivals back from Toronto Thursday, against the New York Rangers to open their home season.

Monday night, November 9, is the date of the next American Basketball League game at the Municipal Auditorium, and the opponents of the Colonials will be the New York Jewels.

Deviation from the regular playing night, Wednesday, has been made in order to cooperate with Commander William T. Roedel and the American Legion for the annual Armistice or Victory Ball.

Manager Frank Morgenweck hopes that the change in nights will be convenient for his patrons and that the Kingston brigade of basketballers will fare a little better than they did against the Philadelphia Hebrews in the opening of the American League here.

The Morgenweckers, holding a 23-14 advantage at the end of the second period, fell victim to a concentrated attack by the Sphas in the closing frame when Cy Kaselman dropped in shots accurately from scrimmage and the free throw stripe. Regardless of the 30-27 loss for Kingston, the game was one well worth watching and held plenty of thrills for the crowd of fans that packed the Auditorium.

The Jewels have an imposing lineup of players and Kingston should have another hard battle on its hands Monday. Buck Freeman, former St. John's coach, will bring the following cakers here to oppose the Colonials: Matty Begovich, Honey Russell, George Slott, Mac Kinsbunner, Althe Schuckman, "Ripper" Gerson, Poonack, Goldsmith and Pilkington.

Tonight the Colonials will play at Philadelphia against the Hebrews.

The schedule for this week-end and the standing of the clubs to date is as follows:

Club Standings

Club	Won	Lost	Pct.
Philadelphia Hebrews	1	0	1.000
Atlantic City Snipers	0	0	.000
New York Jewels	0	0	.000
Paterson Visitation	0	0	.000
Jersey Red	0	0	.000
Kingston City Service	0	1	.000

Schedule for This Week

Saturday, November 7—Kingston City Service at Philadelphia, Broadwood Hotel.

Sunday afternoon, November 8—Paterson Visitation at Jersey Reds, Columbia Park, Union City, N. J. Evening—Philadelphia Hebrews at New York Jewels, Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn.

Monday, November 9—New York Jewels at Kingston, Auditorium.

All of the teams in the American Professional Basketball League will have made their initial debut of the 1936-37 season within the next few days, with the exception of Atlantic City, N. J. This latter club does not make an appearance until the following week-end.

Chapter A Meeting Thursday Night

Highland, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Olaf Sundstrom presided at a short business meeting of Chapter A, P. E. O., Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Sr. The meeting was followed by a social in which the B. L. L. were guests and assisted in the auction of luncheon which were put up for sale by the ladies. The box containing the supper was decorated and the owner's name inside. She ate lunch with the man who purchased the box. Supervisor John F. Wadlin acted as auctioneer. The chapter treasury netted about ten dollars from the sale. Mrs. Marian Howell arranged a series of games and stunts forming a continuous entertainment during the evening. A list of topics was drawn from a hat and the person drawing had to speak on the subject drawn for a half minute. A punch board containing a list of stunts was used and each person noted the subject they had assigned to them. Two persons on the ends of a string had to come forward and work their way to the center where candy kisses were suspended. Much laughter and advice was handed out to everyone who took part in these amusing forms of entertainment. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Carpenter, Mrs. Olaf Sundstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Haviland, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Will Plank, Mr. Weyant, Marlborough; Mr. and Mrs. Myron Hazen, Milton; Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Freston, Miss Laura Harcourt, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. Rose Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. There Seems To Be Quite A Lot Of This Election bets have a way of going sour after election day, and this year's election was no exception. The Democratic landslide even took along the pants of Thomas Arrigo (left), Buffalo, N. Y., London supporter, who paraded in a barrel and his 'woolies' in the street. Center (top and bottom), Wallace Beardsley of Mineola, N. Y., did some traditional peanut-rolling with his nose, while Miss Florence Adgate of Revere, Mass., had to push a pencil across Boston Common. (Right) Everybody on Chicago's State street cashed in on the bet of Miss Sally O'Brien, who took a walk in her bathing suit with the temperature in the 40's and served free sandwiches to pedestrians. What was London's loss was State street's gain. (Associated Press Photo)

COTTEKILL

Cottekill, Nov. 7.—The Halloween party in the church hall for the Sunday school was well attended. Many races of life represented, among which were the gypsies, Dutch girls, Puritans, nurses, Colonial lady and gentlemen, and the clowns who made much merriment. There was a grand march and prizes were given for the best and funniest costumes. After the march masks were removed and everyone joined in the fun of the evening. Much attention was given to bobbing for apples and fishing in the pond and many had their future revealed by the fortune teller whose tent had been placed in a corner of the hall and made to look very mysterious, surrounded by corn stalks, black cats, bats and owls. At the close of the evening the committee served refreshments.

Douglas Snyder, son, Franklin, and aunt, Mrs. Florence Skye, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Snyder. The Ladies' Aid Society met on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Lloyd Prall. There were ten members present and at the close of the business session Mrs. Prall and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Vreeland, of Kingston, served tasty refreshments.

Mrs. Russell R. Akins was at Lake George on Sunday and was guest soloist at the First Presbyterian Church.

Edbert Rhinehart and Carl Lillberg spent Saturday afternoon with Stanley Schneider at Plutarch.

In County Granges

Rosendale Grange

On Monday evening, November 9, Rosendale Grange will celebrate its tenth anniversary. The masters of the different Granges of the county have been invited and the charter members are invited and strongly urged to attend this meeting and most friends from the county who will be there to help celebrate this gala occasion. The program will be in charge of Past Lecturer Henry Mollenhauer and considerable time and effort has been spent to make this a literary hour that will be outstanding. There will be duets, addresses, novelty entertainment, educational features, etc., which will be given by new members and charter members. Rosendale Grange is expecting its patrons to make a special effort to attend and celebrate its tenth birthday in its new Grange home.

The refreshment committee, assisted by other members of the Grange will include Mr. and Mrs. E. Brodsky, Mrs. Henry Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Rosen, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. LeFevre, Jr., Miss Carrie Brodsky. On Friday, November 13, the Service and Hospitality Committee will sponsor a "Poverty Party and Dance." Every one is asked to come dressed in their oldest clothes or a hat will be imposed on the offending one. The proceeds are to be an enjoyable evening for all who attend. A small admission will be charged.

At the last regular meeting of the Grange the 4-H Girls Club of Rosendale, Maple Hill and Creek Locks were entertained.

The lecturer relinquished her lecture to the club and the achievement program for the year was given. There were over 100 in attendance and enjoyed hearing these girls tell of their achievements under the 4-H program. The presentation was made by Mrs. Hilda Hirsch, county club agent was the guest speaker and made very plain the wonder how 4-H work fits in the rural life and girl. The achievement-pins were presented to the different members by Henry Mollenhauer who preceded the presentation by a short address. He also told of the great advantage 4-H work has for the country children who do not have this branch of work in the country school.

The program follows:

Club Rally Song
4-H Pledge by all clubs
Our work of last year and this year
Natalie Phillips (Creek Locks)
Louise Rosier (Rosendale)
Last year's work and this year
Glenore
Anne Tremack (Creek Locks)
Demonstration at State Fair
Betty Purdy (Rosendale)
What 4-H has done for me and broadcasting experience at WGY
Carrie Brodsky (Maple Hill)
Exhibiting 4-H County Fair
Anna Gurewick (Rosendale)
Little Ensign, piano solo
Georgia Cross (Creek Locks)
Club Congress
Rena Weep (Rosendale)
Movie on meat packing.

Mrs. Weep, Rosendale leader, then thanked the Grange for its cooperation and help. Mrs. Frost of Maple Hill told of the joy she had experienced in leading a 4-H club. The club song, 4-H Will Shine, was sung at this time with great lustre.

The program closed by Mrs. Ruth Hotelling of Creek Locks, who acted as chairman of the club.

After the closing of the meeting refreshments in abundance were served to all, which was followed by dancing, both modern and old fashioned to the entrancing music of "Ring Tat and his Boogie Woogie." This orchestra kindly donated their service and their music and society entertainment is appreciated by the Rosendale Grange.

Five Passed Exams For Road Foreman

Albany, Nov. 7 (Special)—The State Civil Service Commission has made public a list of five Ulster county candidates, who passed the competitive examination for the position of highway light maintenance foreman, in the Division of Highways, Department of Public Works, for Ulster county.

Those who passed are: James Berardi, R. F. D. 1, East Kingston, who ranked first with a rating of 84 per cent; Edward T. Burns, 339 Abel street, Kingston, 80 per cent; William McDole, 168 Center street, Ellenville, 79 per cent; J. Haviland Barley, 161 Fairview avenue, Kingston, 77 per cent, and Henry J. Straley, 60 Derrenbacher street, Kingston, 75 per cent.

California is the only state in the union containing areas of substantial size that lie below sea level.

Sure, the Germans ought to get their colonies back. How else can they get away from Hitler?
